LifeVantage Receives U.S. Patent for Healthy Glow Essentials Stack

April 21, 2026

Expands intellectual property portfolio and underscores commitment to science-backed health and wellness solutions

SALT LAKE CITY, April 21, 2026 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- LifeVantage Corporation® (Nasdaq: LFVN), a leading health and wellness company with products designed to activate optimal health processes at the cellular level, today announced it has been granted a United States Patent No. 12,589,067 B2, issued March 31, 2026, for nutritional supplement composition and methods for activating cellular signaling genes of its Healthy Glow Essentials Stack ™ which contains key activators Protandim® Nrf2 Synergizer® and TrueScience® Liquid Collagen.*

According to the patent, compositions of the product duo improved the skin and impacted key regulatory genes associated with several important cellular pathways. Protandim® Nrf2 Synergizer® supports the body's own production of powerful antioxidants to fight the signs of aging, while TrueScience® Liquid Collagen helps activate, replenish, and maintain the body's natural collagen —supporting smoother skin, hydration, and overall health for hair, joints, and connective tissue.*

Studies in fibroblasts show that together they synergistically activate the body's natural ability to break the cellular stress cycle that can accelerate signs of aging. Getting to the root of heightened stress at the cellular level makes a significant impact on your health, helping to deliver skin benefits, and supporting various functions and systems throughout the body, such as joint health, cardiovascular function, and gut health.*

"Receiving this U.S. patent for Healthy Glow Essentials Stack™ is the culmination of over three years of rigorous research and development," said Lisa Barnes, LifeVantage Vice President of Research and Development. "Our team discovered powerful synergies through systematic testing of Activator pairings. This patent further validates our science-driven approach and reinforces LifeVantage's position as an innovation leader in the industry."
